Christian Burial- THE CASE FOR BURIAL. Admittedly there is no direct command regarding burial or prohibition of cremation. 14 While the act of cremation, as such, is not a sin or an intrinsic evil like murder, burial is the general pattern set down in Scripture. 15 Its continued practice is a reasonable inference drawn from biblical truths. Thus we believe the evidence supports the conclusion that Christians, if at all possible, should practice burial.

Brewer v. Williams is well-known because of its famous "Christian burial speech." It presaged Rhode Island v. Innis, 446 U.S. 291 (1980), which holds that interrogation is not only express questioning, but any statements reasonably likely to elicit an incriminating response. Although the dissenting justices in Brewer v.

Brewer v. Williams - Case Summary and Case Brief

Facts of the Case On the afternoon of December 24, 1968, a 10-year-old girl named Pamela Powers went with her family to the YMCA in Des Moines, Iowa, to watch a wrestling tournament in which her brother was participating. When she failed to return from a trip to the washroom, a search for her began. The search was unsuccessful.

A Christian burial is the burial of a deceased person with specifically Christian rites; typically, in consecrated ground. Until recent times Christians generally objected to cremation because it interfered with the concept of the resurrection of a corpse, and practiced inhumation almost exclusively. Today this opposition has all but vanished among Protestants and Catholics alike, and this is rapidly becoming more common, although Eastern Orthodox Churches still mostly forbid exhumation.
